1. Introduction

The Staff Handbook is essential to the Employees of the American University in the Emirates, as key stakeholders, for the dissemination and implementation of relevant policies, procedures, and guidelines that shall facilitate University operations.

The Staff Handbook is circulated among staff members. Staff members have the responsibility to acquaint themselves with this document, as the presented policies and regulations are fundamental to their engagement at the American University in the Emirates. All approved policies and procedures shall replace any earlier versions and be in effect as of the date of Board approval.

The American University in the Emirates reserve the right to update, amend or modify its policies and procedures implemented in the Staff Handbook on a regular basis in accordance with what it deems appropriate and fulfilling its interests. The Vice President for Administrative and Financial Affairs, and the Human Resource Department shall inform employees of any amendments made to the Staff Handbook once these are officially agreed upon by the Administrative Council, University Council, and the Board of Trustees.

The staff handbook provide describes the University policies, procedures and processes for managing the institution staff. Therefore, this manual does not supersede or override the employment contract.

The University makes reasonable efforts to ensure that the information provided in this handbook is accurate. However, if there are discrepancies between the Staff Handbook and the Policies and Procedures, the latter takes precedence.

2. The University

2.1. University History

The American University in the Emirates (AUE) originated in the Academic Year (AY) 2006-2007 as the “American College in the Emirates” (ACE). The College’s initial mission “to offer quality, multidisciplinary, and career-oriented academic degree programs, that prepare students for successful employment and continuing higher education.” As a self-financed institution, ACE awarded two-year associate degrees in media, information technology, business, and design. At this time, the United Arab Emirates and Dubai governments and business sectors accepted graduates with associate degrees for intermediate and entry-level employment.

The College labeled itself an “American College” since it offered associate degrees under a credit hour system and an American curriculum comprised of General Education and free elective courses. In the 63-credit hours associate degree programs, ACE focused on General Education and the Liberal Arts during the first year of study, and offered specialization courses with job training for the second year. The initial intake in the 2006/07 year was comprised of 40 students—a blend of first-year students and working professionals.

By the year’s end, 21 students had dropped out due to a lack of English language and mathematics competency. For a startup, self-financed institution, a greater than 50% dropout rate was a significant challenge. However, with the shareholders’ commitment and financial support, the founding Board of Trustees and the College President were inspired to continue with the project of establishing a new, top quality academic institution that would prioritize academic rigor and education. The Board of Trustees added two new priorities to the initial strategic plan: 1) student success and retention; and 2) resource optimization.

By the end of AY 2007/08, the College developed the slogan “Nothing is Impossible” to inspire students to thrive and overcome all challenges in academic and professional endeavors, as well as to motivate the College’s faculty members and staff to work effectively and efficiently in the face of inevitable early obstacles.

During AY 2008/09, before ACE graduated its first cohort (i.e., the class of 2007), the global financial crisis affected most business firms in Dubai and the Gulf region in general. As a result, organizations downsized and retained only the most skilled and experienced staff. The College’s Board of Trustees observed the effects of the crisis on the United Arab Emirates’ markets and business firms and the College’s graduates. Consequently, to meet the new market dynamics, the Board was determined to equip its graduates with more knowledge, skills, and competencies by offering full bachelor’s degree programs.

Employees are obliged to ensure that they are suitably and conservatively dressed to preserve the reputation and appearance of the University and to comply with any specific rules established by the department of human resource and in a manner that is appropriate to the requirements of their employment, customs and traditions prevailing in the United Arab Emirates.

7.5. Discipline Principles

While the University regulations and the employment contracts authorize discipline administration, it cannot be exercised in a subjective or inappropriate manner. Furthermore, University regulations grant employees the right to use the grievance and appeal system. The University adheres to implement an effective disciplinary framework that ensures that appropriate code of good conduct is communicated and accessible to all employees, and that all due process regulations are fulfilled.

The University discipline principles encompass the following:

1. Promptly discipline, disciplinary decisions shall be taken within a reasonable timeframe from the reporting the violation, through the investigation, until the disciplinary action is initiated.
2. Corrective discipline, disciplinary measures are not intended to punish the employee and should instead be devised to spur employees' behavior and/or responsibilities.
3. Progressive discipline, disciplinary actions to employees are determined gradually from minor to severe measures based on the nature, frequency, and history of violations.
4. Apparent discipline, University policies and procedures, code of good conduct, and behavioral expectations are communicated and accessible to all employees.
5. Consistent discipline, disciplinary actions are built on objective, sound judgment, and rational consideration for all employees regardless of the position, rank, or years of experience. Disciplinary measures are appropriate to the nature, frequency, and history of violations.
6. Evidence-Based discipline, disciplinary actions are considered on the basis of comprehensive and impartial investigation driven by facts and proofs.

7. Right to appeal, employees can file an appeal, employees can submit additional information, and evidence deemed to be applicable to the issue should be submitted for consideration.

7.6. Responsibility of Disciplinary Imposition

The direct supervisor or (any higher-level administrative hierarchy) is responsible for reviewing disciplinary claims, after rational deliberation with direct higher-level administrative (director and/or administrative vice presidents) may warrant disciplinary actions or decide whether a disciplinary committee should be conducted.

If the supervisor receives allegations against any employee, the supervisor shall immediately request for direct higher-level administrative to review the case. If the allegations are evident, after rational deliberation with the higher-level administrator and based on the type and significance of the violation, appropriate disciplinary measures must promptly be imposed on the employee.

Employees have the right to respond to the allegations in writing, and the supervisor must review the response of the employee (if any) and collect more information before determining whether a disciplinary measure is justified.

7.7. Inquiry Committee

In accordance with the Disciplinary Principles, allegations must be supported by facts and/or evidence. If the allegations require more facts, evidence, and information gathering, the supervisor, in coordination with the direct higher-level administrative, shall promptly form an ad-hoc inquiry committee to gather more information about the allegations. If the inquiry committee result indicates that violation or misconduct was found, the case shall be directed to the disciplinary committee.

7.8. Disciplinary Committee

The Committee must adopt the discipline principles aforementioned in this policy, other relevant University policies, and applicable UAE laws. The committee performs on the basis of comprehensive and impartial investigation driven by facts and proofs; the committee investigation shall build on the inquiry committee findings. Hearing sessions are required to reveal the facts with all involved individuals in the case. Moreover, the employees have the right to review and respond to any presented material or evidence at the hearing.

Any recommendation and/or action shall be taken and issued by the Disciplinary Committee and submitted to the provost for a final decision. Thereafter, the committee notifies the employee in writing of the nature of the disciplinary sanction, the reasons for the sanction, and the imposed action against the employee in the event of a repetition of offense (where relevant). The committee recommendation shall be consistent with the nature of the violation or breach caused by the administrative staff. The final decision shall be one or more of the following disciplinary measures:

1. No violation or breach found.
2. Recommendation of formal warning letter.
3. Recommendation of formal final warning letter.
4. Recommendation of a fine depending on the damage/loss and/or violation or breach of the employee.
5. Recommendation of suspension of work with salary reduction for a period not exceeding ten days.
6. Recommendation of denial of periodic increment.

7. Recommendation of denial of promotion.
8. Recommendation of terminating the employment contract with remuneration.
9. Recommendation of termination of the employment contract without remuneration.

7.9. Disciplinary Measures

Disciplinary actions shall be consistent with the severity of the violation. The decision of necessary disciplinary measures will also take into account whether the employee has deliberately and/or voluntarily refused to fulfill the role and responsibilities, or if the employee has made an effort to perform the responsibilities. Hence repeated violations of obligations are more significant than a first violation. Applicable disciplinary measures are:

Formal Warning Letter

The first step of the corrective action should be devised when informal and verbal feedback have failed to achieve the desired change in performance or conduct. The supervisor will contact the Department of Human Resources to review the facts of the situation.

The aim of this step is to create a firm and formal kind of awareness for the employee that immediate change in behavior and/or performance is necessary. The interaction during the formal warning letter should be firm and rational and should ensure that the employee clearly understands the requirements and expectations that have been developed about the behavior or performance recognized. The supervisor shall bring to attention any fact-based relevant incidents to the situation.

Formal Final Warning Letter

When the employee has failed to rectify the issues associated with a written notification step, the employee may, where appropriate, have the final chance to address the problem. Based on the situation's facts, and in consultation with the Department of Human Resources, the supervisor issues a final notification describing the reasons that necessitate reaching this step; the final notification also outlines the expectations to rectify the problems within defined timelines if not immediately.

The supervisor must clarify to the employee the implications of reaching the final warning of the disciplinary action in terms of employment standing with the University. Failure to resolve the problems at this stage shall cause termination of employment. Achieving Good standing can be accomplished by thoroughly and regularly meeting all job roles and expected performance standards for a period of one calendar year. The respective head of department must impose the disciplinary measures of written and final warning.

Fines

Recommendation of a fine depending on the damage/loss and/or violation or breach of the academic staff. In case of a fine, the fine may be expressed in terms of a specific amount or an amount equal to the employee's salary for a specific period. This amount will be deducted from the employee's salary. The fine sanction in respect of one violation or breach shall not exceed five days of the monthly salary of each month imposed on him/her. This disciplinary measure can be imposed only by a disciplinary committee.

Denial of periodic Increment

The discipline measure for denial of a periodic increment/reward can only be imposed once a year. This disciplinary measure can be imposed only by a disciplinary committee.

Denial of Promotion

The discipline measure for deny of the promotion may not be imposed for more than one promotional cycle. The employee shall then be promoted during the following promotional cycle if he/she meets the necessary conditions for such promotion. This disciplinary measure can be imposed only by a disciplinary committee.

Employment Termination

If the employee has failed to address the problem or produce unsatisfactory outcomes against the agreed written expectations. If employment terminating is reached, the Vice Presidents must determine whether to enforce the disciplinary measure after carefully reviewing the evidence and the procedure leading to the recommendation. The employment termination implies that the employee receives all compensation and benefits due. This disciplinary measure can be imposed only by a disciplinary committee.

Employment Termination without remuneration (Dismissal)

The employee can be terminated without a preliminary record of corrective discipline and with no remuneration if a substantial or unforeseen case of significant misconduct has been properly evidenced.

In accordance with the United Arab Emirates Labor law, below are offenses of serious misconduct that warrant dismissal under this policy, without prior record of corrective discipline nor end of service remuneration:

1. If an employee adopts a false identity or nationality or submits forged documents or certificates.
2. If an employee commits an error causing substantial material loss to the University.
3. If an employee violates instructions concerning the safety of the campus.
4. If an employee discloses any confidential information pertaining to the academic affairs, students, or any component in the University.
5. If an employee is awarded a final judgment by the competent court in respect of an offense prejudicing honor, honesty, or public morals.
6. If, during working hours, an employee is found drunk or under the influence of drug.
7. If, in the course of his work, an employee commits an assault on the University, the supervisor, or any of his/her colleagues.
8. If an employee is absent without a legitimate excuse for more 20 (twenty) intermittent days or for more than 7 (seven) successive days for one year.

Disciplinary procedures shall be applied even though the employee resigns during the investigation or resigns during imposing the defined sanctions. This disciplinary measure can be imposed only by a disciplinary committee.

University Discretion

The method of corrective action outlined in this policy is general in nature and does not warrant any particular course of action. Depending on the situation, the University reserves the right to alter or change the corrective action process as long as the process is in line with the discipline principles.

The University reserves the right to skip any step in the discipline process depending upon the severity of the offense

Suspension during Investigation

During the investigation, the employee shall be suspended and shall not be entitled to the salary. If it is evident there is no truth in the allegation; the employee shall be reinstated and paid full pay for the period of suspension.

7.10. Record keeping

Disciplinary case documentation and records shall be retained according to the retention policy and procedures of the University records.

7.11. Appeal

If the employee disagrees with the investigation findings and/or disagrees with the disciplinary measures imposed, or denies the due process, he/she may appeal to the President.

7.12. Disciplinary Action Procedure:

The employee will be informed by the concerned Vice President Office on the potential breach of code of conduct and inform that a disciplinary committee will meet and review the case

The Vice President Office submits the case to the Disciplinary Committee with the issues pertaining to disciplinary issue, within the two (2) working days.

The disciplinary committee meet and review all the fact and vote for the decision before concluding.

The decision of the Disciplinary Committee will be communicated to the Vice President.

The Human Resources Department will communicate the final decision to the staff member.

The Human Resources Department keep the records in the employee file both soft and hard personal file.

8. COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

The University provides salaries and benefits that are responsive to market demands and are at a level that is competitive to other similar institutions in the UAE. The University offers adequate salaries and benefits in order to attract and retain highly qualified administrative staff to support the University's mission.

8.1. Full-Time Staff

The University defines administrative staff salary ranges and conditions of recruitment applicable at the University and applies a salary scale based on the criteria for each position level.

9.6.Emergency Leave

If the University recognizes that there is a specific list of circumstances when an employee needs to take a necessary emergency leave. Therefore, the emergency leave shall be approved only based on special and compelling circumstances. The emergency leave is only for employee emergency cases subject to the approval of the supervisor on emergency leave requests

Length of Emergency Leave

Employees are allowed, based on this policy requirement, for a maximum of 5 unpaid full days of personal emergency leave every calendar year subject to the supervisor approval. There are a number of reasons for which emergency leave shall be considered as loss of pay or deducted from the available annual leave balance covered under this Policy which are:

Serious illness of an immediate family member: Serious illness or life-threatening illness or injury of immediate family members that requires full admission to a hospital outside the UAE. The University defines immediate family members as parents, spouse, children, brothers, and sisters. Urgent matters:

Urgent matters should be related to urgent documented cases outside UAE such as cases causing material, property, and money misfortune loss.

The decision to consider the availability of the employee where the urgent matter happened to avoid misfortune loss necessary is given only to the supervisor and his/her vice president. Any other matter will be considered urgent based on the supervisor and his/her superiors' opinion and decision.

10. PERFORMANCE EVALUATION

Regular performance evaluation review stimulates professional growth and improves job performance; it inspires employees to explore innovative ways to promote academic excellence and recognize opportunities for improvement. The annual performance review is conducted based on the job role and responsibilities; performance criteria are mutually defined for each position, which identifies expectations between employees and supervisors. The performance evaluation review report shall consist of assessments of the performance of employees in each area of responsibility with a separate score for each area, as well as an overall score. This policy provides a reference guide on performance evaluations for all administrative and non-academic staff.

All full-time staff must be reviewed annually. The performance evaluation must be developed on the basis of performance criteria, which are derived from the job function and responsibilities. The performance criteria provide measurable and transparent ground. The performance review result intends to improve employee performance and streamline their effort to achieve the units and University mission.

10.1. Performance Criteria

In collaboration with employees and their supervisors, performance criteria are developed for each job description of the position. The performance criteria will be formulated on the basis of departmental priorities, University strategic plan. There are two types of performance criteria: (a) Success criteria, provide the employee with clear expectations of success in each job responsibility. They are measurable expectations explaining how to achieve satisfactory job performance. (b) Exceeding criteria, achieving this level is clearly higher than satisfactory; the employee has done exceptional work or exceeded the expected work achievements due to contributions that go beyond the quality, capacity, and timeliness requirements for this job function.

The development of performance criteria should reflect the following principles:

- a. Concrete – The performance criteria should directly associate to work evidence, tangible feedback, and never rely on sense, rumor, or indirect conclusion. It should relate to the position and not to individuals.
- b. Relevant – The performance criteria should be clearly related to job performance. It should be significant and relevant; also, it should allow both the supervisor and the subordinate to focus their attention on the issues of greatest importance.
- c. Realistic – The performance criteria should be realistic and recognize the standard employee ability.
- d. Measurable – Measures usually involve elements such as quantity, quality, time, or quantifiable outcomes.

10.2. Performance Characteristics

Performance characteristics are attributes, skillset, or individual characteristics necessary for satisfactory performance. Listed performance characteristics are applicable skillset required for the position to execute tasks and goals successfully.

10.3. Performance Sessions (conferences)

Informal performance evaluations occur on an almost daily basis; every time supervisors communicate with employees regarding work assignments, an informal evaluation has occurred. It is important for supervisors to document informal evaluations to assist them in producing formal evaluations and feedback. Formal performance sessions refer to those times when a written performance evaluation is produced and reviewed with the employee. Formal review occurs three times per the academic year.

Performance Planning (initial conference)

At the beginning of the academic year, the supervisor and the employee discuss the planned levels of performance and perceived current levels of performance and review the job description and the position expectations. During the initial conference, the supervisor will clarify the significance of the job description in terms of the performance criteria, expectations, possible evidence, and timelines during the initial conference. The success criteria and exceeding criteria should be agreed on jointly.

Performance Alignment (interim conference)

The mid-year conference is an optional performance session. All employees are encouraged to submit a mid-year status report to their supervisors. The mid-year conference is compulsory for newly joined employees and provisional employees with unsatisfactory performance in the previous review.

Performance Summary (final conference)

At the end of the academic year, the supervisor meets the employee to review the performance criteria and submitted evidence, retrieve the recorded achievements deficiencies of the employee performance log, examine the various performance factors, and deliberate the rating values with adequate feedback to each performance criteria.

Planning and Evaluation (post-conference)

Once the performance review has been discussed, the focus should shift to the use of performance results. Identifying improvement areas of performance for the next review cycle, performance improvement is likely to occur only if specific plans are developed and specific performance objectives are set. Supervisors and the employee are expected to develop a purposeful professional development plan for achieving the desired performance objectives. Encourage the employee under review to indicate ambitious goals for the next year. This type of positive reinforcement makes the relationship feels more reciprocal and thus motivates the department members to achieve more.

10.4. Performance Rating

Each performance criteria must be rated based on the submitted evidence and provided rationale by the employee; the rating is directly associated with the performance criteria and achievement of the job role. Supervisors must assess employees' strengths and identify opportunities where employees could improve or require additional knowledge or skills.

Supervisors must avoid errors in the evaluation process that may arise from the partial attitude or inconsistent judgment, which prevents the objective and accurate assessment process. Evaluators should ethically consider the common rating errors:

- a. Bias is a tendency towards or against something based on personal preferences. In assessment performance, biasness could be toward or against an individual employee. Supervisors cannot allow perception to determine the performance of employees. Biases make the evaluation process subjective rather than objective and certainly provide the opportunity for lack of consistency in effect on different groups of employees. To overcome the bias problem, the supervisor must be objective and not let emotions of liking or disliking the individual influence performance assessment.

- b. Stereotyping is mentally classifying a person as having the same characteristics as a particular social group. Common types of stereotyping that occur in the workplace are gender, race, and nationality stereotyping. To avoid stereotyping by getting to know each employee as an individual and objectively evaluate individual employees based on their actual performance.
- c. The Halo effect is the trend to generalize from one specific positive employee feature to other aspects of the individual's performance; the halo effect tends to blind the supervisor to shortcomings in the person being evaluated.
- d. The Horns effect occurs when a particular negative trait or behavior leads the supervisor to generalize the entire employee's performance. Evaluators should independently assess each performance area.
- e. Central tendency errors occur when the supervisor does not use either the high or low rating of the performance evaluation scale. This means that most, if not all, the ratings end up falling in the middle of the scale.
- f. Positive Leniency is the tendency to be an "easy grader" and is demonstrated by giving too many high ratings. Negative Leniency is the opposite and results in a disproportionate number of low ratings.

10.5. Performance Review Participants Roles

A reliable performance management process enables the institution to gain employees' full potential. Within the performance review cycle, employees, supervisors, and reviewers have vital roles to play as the entire process primarily depends on them. Employees with direct supervisors together formulate performance agreements and participate in assessment schemes. They discuss their roles and the required skills and, together with their reviewers, define goals. Therefore, performance review participants roles are outlined below:

Role of the Reviewers

Reviewers are the second line of management; generally, they represent the college deans and vice presidents in the University; they play a crucial role in educating direct supervisors that performance management will contribute to institution strategic goals and resource planning; thus, they should ensure inductive and collegiate atmosphere driven by ongoing feedback based on impartial performance assessment intended to improve employee satisfaction and productivity.

Reviewers' role in the performance review process should ensure that direct supervisors have the appropriate attitude to the purpose of performance management and have the proper soft skills for implementing it. Also, reviewers are required to avoid any rating errors such as biasing, stereotyping, or other subjective influences in the performance review process. They should build a culture of evidence, transparency, and competency during and after the performance process.

Role of Supervisors

Direct supervisors should consider performance management as a two-way conversation that takes place throughout the year. Offer ongoing formal and informal feedback to endorse employee achievement and identify gaps in a constructive approach avoids shocking the employees with low scores and feedback in their formal performance reviews. Supervisors are encouraged to deploy the performance management process as a powerful technique to promote employee skills advancement and to align professional attitude to unit effectiveness, and to use the performance review result to plan growth and preparation for the coming years.

Supervisors are required to avoid any rating errors such as biasing, stereotyping, or other subjective influences in the performance review process. They should build a culture of evidence, transparency, and competency during and after the performance process.

Role of Employee

The role of the employee in this performance management process is to work towards the achievement of performance objectives that are collaboratively formed with the supervisor as part of the performance management practices. Employees are intended to maintain track of work progress and to be able to demonstrate evidence of progress as well as communicating progress on a regular basis to their supervisors, especially if there are challenges that could preclude achieving these objectives.

The performance review process aims at creating a culture of accountability for employees. In addition, employees will embrace positive criticism and take the opportunity to change; they are required to take responsibility for personal growth and career advancement. Maintain a healthy relationship with the supervisor, and often ask for feedback and guidance, especially when you are faced with challenges.

10.6. Performance Logs

In order to improve the quality and quantity of the information being used to assess the employee and to ensure that the performance evaluation covers the entire evaluation period, supervisors should maintain performance logs on employees. These logs should include information indicating tasks or projects performed particularly well and examples demonstrating performance deficiencies.

10.7. Appeal

All employees must be provided the opportunity to lodge a formal appeal with the unit head. The appeal may be based on a claim of contested merit score(s) issue in their employee performance review.

If an employee appeals at the unit level and is dissatisfied with the decision of the unit head, an appeal may be made to the relevant vice president, if the employee is still dissatisfied with the decision, the appeal diverted to the Provost, and recommendations to the Provost, whose decision will be final.

10.8. Rating Scale Definitions

In performance management systems the rating scales are used to indicate the level of performance or achievement of an employee. These scales provide quantitative assessments to differentiate between employee performance results from the review.

1) Exceeds Expectations

Employee fulfilled established success criteria and achieved the “exceeding criteria” in most areas of performance criteria associated with the job role and responsibilities. All requirements were met, and objectives were achieved above the established standards.

2) Meets Expectations

All success criteria requirements were met, and planned objectives were accomplished within established standards. There were no critical areas where accomplishments were less than planned.

3) Below Expectations

Performance is clearly inadequate. Employee has demonstrated an inability or unwillingness to improve or meet expectations. Performance is not acceptable for position held. Specific deficiencies should be noted.

10.9. Probationary

Earning below expectations repetitively; would lead the University to sincerely investigate whether maintained employment is acceptable unless there is clear and rapid performance improvement. Employees on probation are directed to follow a restricted professional development plan intended to improve the performance of underscored areas

10.10. Administrative Staff Performance Procedures

Senior Management comprises staff members from the senior management such as President, Provost, Vice Presidents, Directors, Managers. Administrative Officers are personnel with all administrative ranks below Manager position.

Evaluation Method for Senior Management

President, Provost, Vice Presidents, Directors and Managers are required to initiate and submit a comprehensive portfolio with appropriate supporting work evidence that supports the evaluator and reviewer during the performance evaluation process. The portfolio consists of Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) along with success criteria in accordance with the job description of the concerned position. Formal review occurs at three times per the academic year.

- a. Performance Planning (initial conference)
 - i. At the beginning of the academic year, supervisor and employee discuss the planned levels of performance and perceived current levels of performance and review the job description and the position expectations.
 - ii. During the initial conference, the supervisor will clarify the significance of the job description in terms of the performance criteria, expectations, possible evidence, and timelines during the initial conference.
 - iii. The success criteria and exceeding criteria should be agreed jointly.
- b. Performance Alignment (interim conference)
 - i. The mid-year conference is an optional performance session, all employees are encouraged to submit a mid-year status report to their supervisors.
 - ii. The mid-year conference is compulsory for newly joined employees and provisional employees with unsatisfactory performance in the previous review.
- c. Performance Summary (final conference)

Portfolio Development and Submission

Each employee will create a portfolio that documents his or her achievements and activities in relation to each determined success criterion.

Each employee must provide evidence of any indicated activity or achievement.

When the portfolio is completed, the employee will submit it to the direct supervisor to be evaluated and discussed with his or her supervisor.

Evaluation Method for Administrative Staff

The immediate supervisor must ensure providing the employee with a copy of the job description outlining the duties and responsibilities of the position, as well as the criteria by which the employee will be evaluated during the probationary period and annually thereafter.

The performance of Administrative Officers is evaluated using the 360-degree evaluation approach, which evaluates the individuals' performance from all angles, including their supervisor's perspective, their subordinates' perspective, their peers' perspective, and their own self-evaluation. Below are the breakdowns of the weights considered when calculating the overall administrative officer's performance evaluation.

- Self-Evaluation (5%)
- Direct Supervisor Evaluation (55%)
- Subordinate Evaluation (20%)
- Peer Evaluation (20%)

Peer Selection Guidelines

A minimum of four peers per applicant is required to protect the identity and confidentiality.

Peer should have frequent work-related interactions with the applicant.

Two of the peers (at least) must be chosen from external department / unit.

All peers cannot be chosen from the same external department / Unit

Peers should have known and worked with the applicant a minimum of 4 months

Peers should not be on probation.

The applicant cannot choose all the peers have the same race, nationality, gender, religion or doctrine that match the applicant (in scenario where the applicant's race, nationality, gender, religion or doctrine is a minority)

Applicant cannot choose peers that are relatives or kin. Managers have the right to reject and reassign the peers after the applicant suggestion.

Exceptions:

- For those employees who have no subordinates, the 20% will be distributed equally between the peers: (30%) and supervisor: (65%).
- For those employees who have no peers, the 20% will be distributed equally between the subordinates: (30%) and supervisor: (65%).

11. PROMOTION AND TRANSFER

University Staff members are encouraged to develop their abilities and seek progression and development openings. AUE is dedicated to career movement of administrative employees and providing promotional chances to competent, skilled and appropriate employees. It is the policy of AUE to circulate internally any position within an administrative department and to consider existing administrative employees possessing the required qualifications and skills to execute and accomplish the position responsibilities.

11.1. Definitions

While in case of a lateral transfer within the same job classification, the increase in pay shall not be allowable at the time of transfer.

12. SHARED GOVERNANCE

Administrative Vice Presidents, under the supervision of the Provost and University President, have principal accountability to encourage and stimulate cooperative, helpful, and caring working atmosphere, and to defend, hearten, and recognize administrative employees in the performance, achievement, and accomplishment of their duties related to their job descriptions, expected deliverables, institutional support, and professional advance.

The main responsibility of the University administration, from a governance perspective, is to participate in committees, councils in a positive and productive manner with other staff and faculty members, as they work toward the mutual objective of achieving the University mission.

Staff members have primary responsibility in University governance through suggestion, formulation, and improvement of recommendations related to policies, procedures, and processes, chiefly those that have or will have a noteworthy influence on them.

In addition, the elected staff member representative can be part of the Administrative and University councils voting member.

13. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The University encourages professional staff to gain more knowledge, expertise, and competencies. Professional development aims to improve the job performance of staff that contributes to the overall units and the institution's resource effectiveness. University supports essential, effective, and meaningful professional development that aid in achieving its mission and goals.

Professional development is a continuous, agile process that relies significantly on providing regular reviews on staff performance and inspiration for career improvement. This policy covers the planning, objective, and support to all forms of professional development and outlines staff eligibility criteria for tuition assistance.

The University allocates an adequate budget to support professional staff development activities to enhance its staff members' skills and job performance. Staff are entitled to participate in professional development activities such as workshops and training sessions with prior departmental approval to incorporate team improvement plans and to ensure efficiency, and to monitor cost implication and return value. The professional development activities are evaluated regularly to ensure their appropriateness and effectiveness.

13.1. Planning for Professional Development

Unit heads, in coordination with their staff members, plan essential professional development derived from the job responsibilities and in line with units' objectives and priorities. The unit professional development plan also comprises collective recommended professional development activities yielded from a poor performance assessment of staff.

The forms of professional development activities may be conducted in different forms; off-campus, on-campus, online, videoconference, self-study or pre-recorded professional development and other forms, the scope of the staff professional development includes:

Job-Specific Professional Development

Job-specific professional development concentrates on advancement in the field. It directly contributes to the quality, rigor, and innovation of staff job performance. In addition, unit heads may delegate staff to be engaged in new niche areas that contribute to the ambition and planning of the unit.

Performance-Based Professional Development

On the basis of job performance evaluation, professional staff with low performance scores may be directed to pursue professional development activities in one or more areas; to enhance the underscored areas.

Software Application Professional Development

Training activities focus on the job-related software applications, system tools applied by the University. This type of training is ongoing, on demand, and whenever new software or new release is launched.
